Your Kitchen Counsellor

by HARRIETT SMITH
Southern California Gas Company Home Service Representative

LUNCH IS IMPORTANT
Lunch is a mighty important meal.
Did you know that many states have laws that require employers to provide a regular lunch period in a work schedule that is over four hours?
Did you know that all public school programs must allow proper lunch time for pupils and teachers?
Even in the universities where adult students work out their own class schedules, most counsellors will not approve a program unless an adequate lunch period has been set up.

MAKE IT A GOOD MEAL
Yes. That mid-day meal is important. But it's one that lots of folks skip or skimp.
Let's make that lunch a good one. If you eat at home, take time to make and eat a proper meal at noon. If you buy it, learn to enjoy a good selection.
And if it's a packed lunch, but it holds the food that the individual needs and will like to eat. After all, it's no good if it isn't eaten.

Nearly everyone agrees that sandwiches are the mainstay for the lunch that goes to school or work. But just a sandwich isn't enough. So round out the packed lunch with vegetables (salads or finger foods) fruit and milk (beverage, soup or dessert).

AVOID MONOTONY
Folks agree on another point. You have to be careful to avoid monotony in the packed lunch.
It's easy if the menu are thought out in advance. No slipping a piece of meat between bread and tossing in an apple.
There are lots of ways to add eating interest. Different kinds of breads for the sandwiches—assorted spreads and tasty combinations—stuffed buns—changes in the fruits and vegetables—thermos foods (hot or cold). Extra treats in the way of sweets. Have some ideas?

MEAT SALAD SPREAD
1 C. chopped cooked meat
1/2 C. chopped celery
Salt and pepper
Mayonnaise or salad dressing
Any left-over cooked meat or table-ready meat may be used. Mix chopped meat with celery, salt and pepper to taste and blend in enough mayonnaise to make proper spreading consistency. 6 sandwiches.

LIVER SAUSAGE SPREAD
1/2 C. mashed liver sausage
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1/2 C. chopped dill pickle
Mayonnaise
Mix to desired spreading consistency. 4 sandwiches.

PIMENTO CHEESE SPREAD
1 C. grated pimento cheese
1/2 C. chopped celery
1/2 C. chopped walnuts
Mayonnaise
Salt
Combine cheese, celery and nuts with mayonnaise to make a good spread. Add salt to taste. 6 sandwiches.

BEAN-BACON FILLING
1 C. baked beans
2 slices crisp cooked bacon
3 Tbsp. catsup
2 Tbsp. chopped sweet pickle
Salt
Mayonnaise or salad dressing
Mix beans with a fork. Break bacon into bits and add with catsup and pickle to beans. Mix in salt to taste and mayonnaise to moisten. 5 sandwiches.

EGG-AVOCADO FILING
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
3 Tbsp. minced avocado
2 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. mayonnaise
Combine all ingredients. 3 sandwiches.

Of course, you can make that important meal that goes to school or work a dandy. Plan to put in a good assortment of food. (Lunch should furnish at least a third of the daily quota.) And make it so that every last bite will be eaten.
Here are a few sandwich fillers that may come in handy when you're looking for ideas.

U. S. Steel to Open Tin Plate Plant

Formal opening of Columbia Steel Company's new steel sheet and tin plate mill at the company's Pittsburg, Cal., plant will be marked by a dedication ceremony on Oct. 21, and an open house on the following day, it was announced by J. Lester Perry, president of this western subsidiary of United States Steel Corporation.

Completion and operation of this new multi-million dollar mill is one of the most important industrial developments in the West since the end of World War II. The mill will supply tin plates to the great Western canning industry and sheets to Western manufacturers of a wide range of products.

Improvement and development work at Columbia's Pittsburg plant was started shortly after the war ended and is an important part of United States Steel Corporation's overall post-war development and expansion program now being carried out in various parts of the country at an aggregate cost of more than $800,000,000.

The new cold-reduction sheet and tin plate mill occupies about 24 1/2 acres of the plant's 400
